There is a project in Paris for having all that we wear waterproof. Some years ago there was an effort to do this in this counthere was an effort to do this in this country by a company of which ex-Secretary McCulloch was president. In a room on Fourteenth street an interesting exhibition was given of a colorless fluid called, if memory is correct, neptunite. On a rack standing in a sine tank hung femining gear and stuffs of all sorts. The performances used to consist of deluging these with water from a convenient hose, which ran off them like water from a duck's back. On a blue silk bounet trimmed with pink roses the drops of water chased one another like giobules of quicksliver.

A stream of water was sent onto a pieca of brussels net, and even the holes spurned it. Velvet ribbons and kid gloves alike repelled water. On ostrich feathers drops of water rested like dew which would not dissolve. Ink was thrown on silk, and a apray water rested like dew which would not dissolve. Ink was thrown on slik, and a spray of water drove it off, leaving the material unburt. A show left standing was filled with water, when emptied was dry. It was like a page out of the "Arabian Nights," in which the elements are conquered by unseen powers. The secret lay in the manufacture of the goods, each fiber having previously been dipped in a liquid which was water repellant. One test is remembered—an army coat held a pint of water 27 hours, which had run through a piece of untreated cloth in three minutes. Nothing, it appears, ever came of the project.—New York tionary-The Trials of a Young Couple

It is often almost impossible for an American to secure the papers necessary to make a European marriage valid, es-pecially in Germany. The lovers are fre-quently obliged to wait until they can repair to some less inquisitive land, where a priest or legal functionary will consent to unite them without asking superfluous questions. When the contracting parties are themselves Euro-peans, the formalities are probably for midable enough, for besides the actual marriage papers there are settlement papers and various preliminary docu-ments to be drawn up. But if you are an American of course you are a suspicious character, and you will find it even doubly difficult to marry the girl of your choice. You must first prove your right to live and breathe and have your being, and your bride must prove her right to live and breathe and have her being, and your father, and your mother, and your bride's father, and your bride's mother must also prove that they were born in due time and have lived irreproachably ever after, and in case living, breathing and having their being it must be shown that they ceased to do so in a sober and godlike manner.

All this and much more must be set forth in a quod erat demon strandum fashion by means of documents before you will be allowed to bend your neck to the conjugal yoke.

The truth of these remarks was illustrated a few weeks ago in Berlin, when the happiness of two young Americans hung for a long time in the balance un-til German authorities finally consented to let them join hands and hearts. The young man was an Egyptologist and found it necessary to be in Egypt at a certain time. He hoped to take his bride with him, but almost up to the last moment he was uncertain whether he should have a bride to take. For months he had been trying to bring about this spair. The bride had lived formerly on the other side of the world, and as there existed in the cautions German mind the possibility that she might have gone and to furnish an epitome of the family histories down to date. There is a ruisfy German authorities as to the man ner of his taking off. Finally all the papers arrived, and the couple repaired one day with their friends and witnesses not to settle the dispute, but to witness it. They put their two solemn heads to-their passports. Of course no one had such a thing about him, so the jaded bridegroom had to rush off in a drosky to secure as many as were necessary.

Meantime a German couple appeared.

Their papers, of course, were all right. The German bridegroom took possession of the American bridegroom's vacant chair, and the American bride, who, by this time, was almost in tears, yielded her seat to the German bride. By the time they had been safely launched upon the sea of married life the passports had been found, and the Americans again took the chairs and were finally made egal functionary, themselves and their

The mother of the bride assured the assembled company that this man was not insidiously defrauding her of her daughter. The company began to breathe more freely. The bridegroom heaved a sigh of relief. The tired bride moved in her chair wearily. But the legal functionary was not going to let them off so easily. He shook his head over the papers, pursed up his lips and then turned on the whole crowd and asked them fiercely for their passports. Of course no one had PFEIFFER, something you want, and

A Simple Remedy. A teacher of health culture declares that a simple remedy for removing the blood from a too active brain is to exer cise the muscles of the feet. Stand firm ly on the ground and then raise the hee and rest on the toe for a second. Do this for a dozen times or so in succes-sion. It will bring a certain degree of relief after a hard day's mental work.
